Family Tree 2

William Richard Shepherd, born 1866, may be the Richard Shepherd referred to in an Oxford Journal article on 20 February 1904, and who also has an uncle Sidney referred to in the article. He died after falling some 11 feet from a hay wagon after a rope, which he was tightening, snapped. He broke his back in the fall and was paralysed and died from heart failure after being attended to by Dr Barns.

Shepherd family, late 19th century, possibly 1896 and taken outside Ambrose Farm. This may have been a family group for the 40th wedding anniversary of Charles and Elizabeth

Grandfather Charles Shepherd of Ambrose Farm did quite a lot of contract carting work. His horses were let out on hire for stone and coal carting and general carrying work. He even had a 'brake' which is a vehicle used for breaking in horses. This could be converted with the addition of a top for transporting people. It was used for Wheatley football and cricket teams to go to away games with local villages. The brake was drawn by two horses, the pick-up point for the teams was the Merry Bells

Charles (born 1859) was very involved with the Congregational Church (now the URC), and was present at the laying of the foundation stone to the school-room in 1898.

By 1894, Charles lived in Ambrose Farm with his family as a tenant of William Boughton.

On William Boughton's death in 1920, Charles Shepherd bought the freehold of the 37 acres, shown in the left-hand image.

Later, in 1927, he sold most of this land, shown in the right-hand image, to Edward Gibbard, a horse dealer who had a butcher's shop in Oxford market.

During the succeeding years, some land was sold for housing and to enable the creation of the (new) London Road.

[0163] Frederick Bruce Shepherd, baptized at the URC on 29 February 1920, married Vera Ellen Trinder, born 22 January 1921, on 11 May 1946 and they had two children Adrian and Isabel. Vera's father, Percy, was foreman to the Walkers of Rectory Farm, and the family was brought up in Chillingworth House.

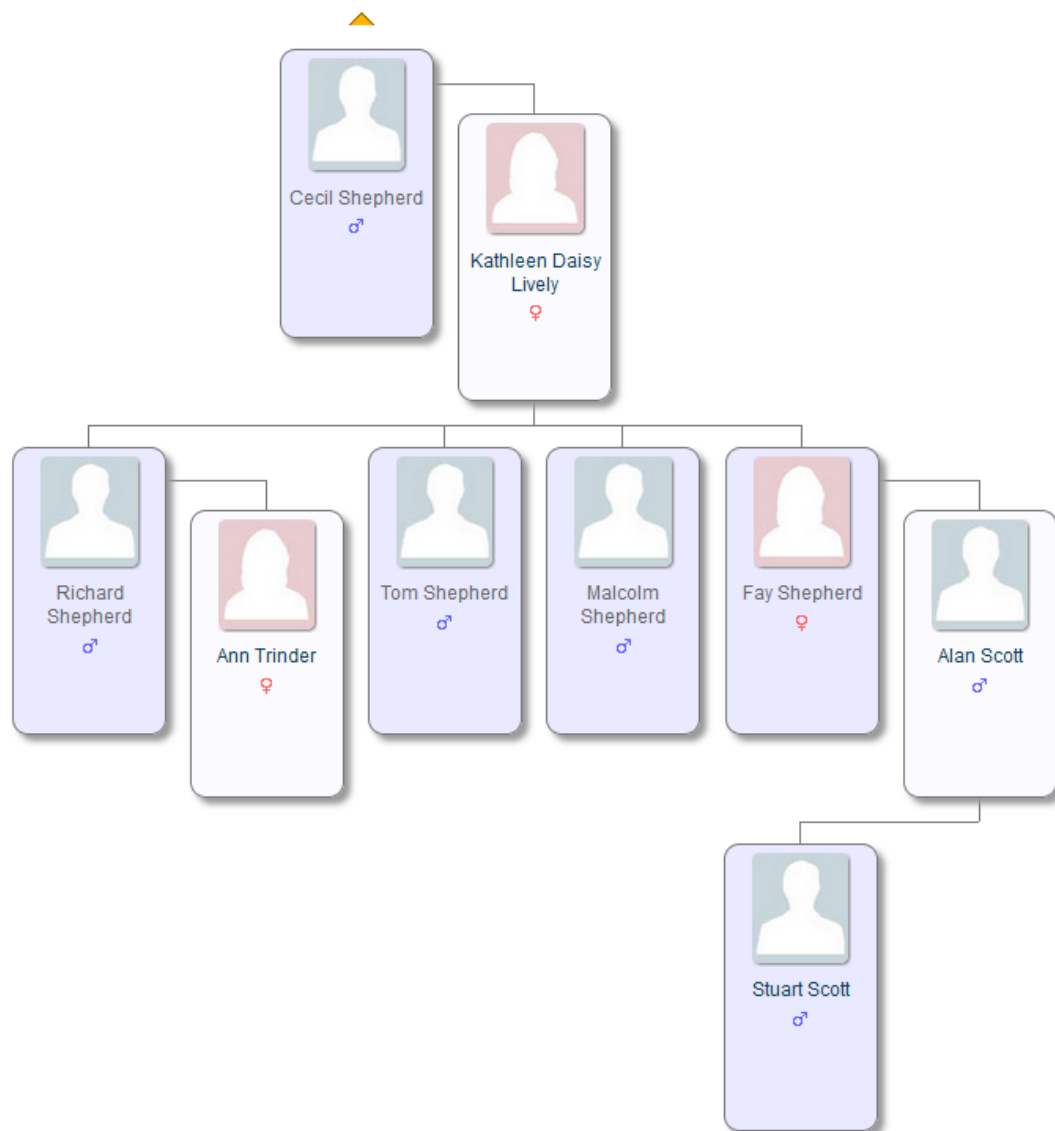

In 1924 Percy acquired the tenancy of Hill Farm (owned by John Chapman and previously let to William Dennis) which consisted of fields to the east of Ladder Hill and Howe Barns on the opposite side. The Trinders had a mixed herd of about eighteen cows, which had to cross the road to be milked.

Vera was a member of the Land Army from 1939-1945 working on her father's farm. She remembers going round the village during the war delivering milk balanced on the handlebars of her bicycle.

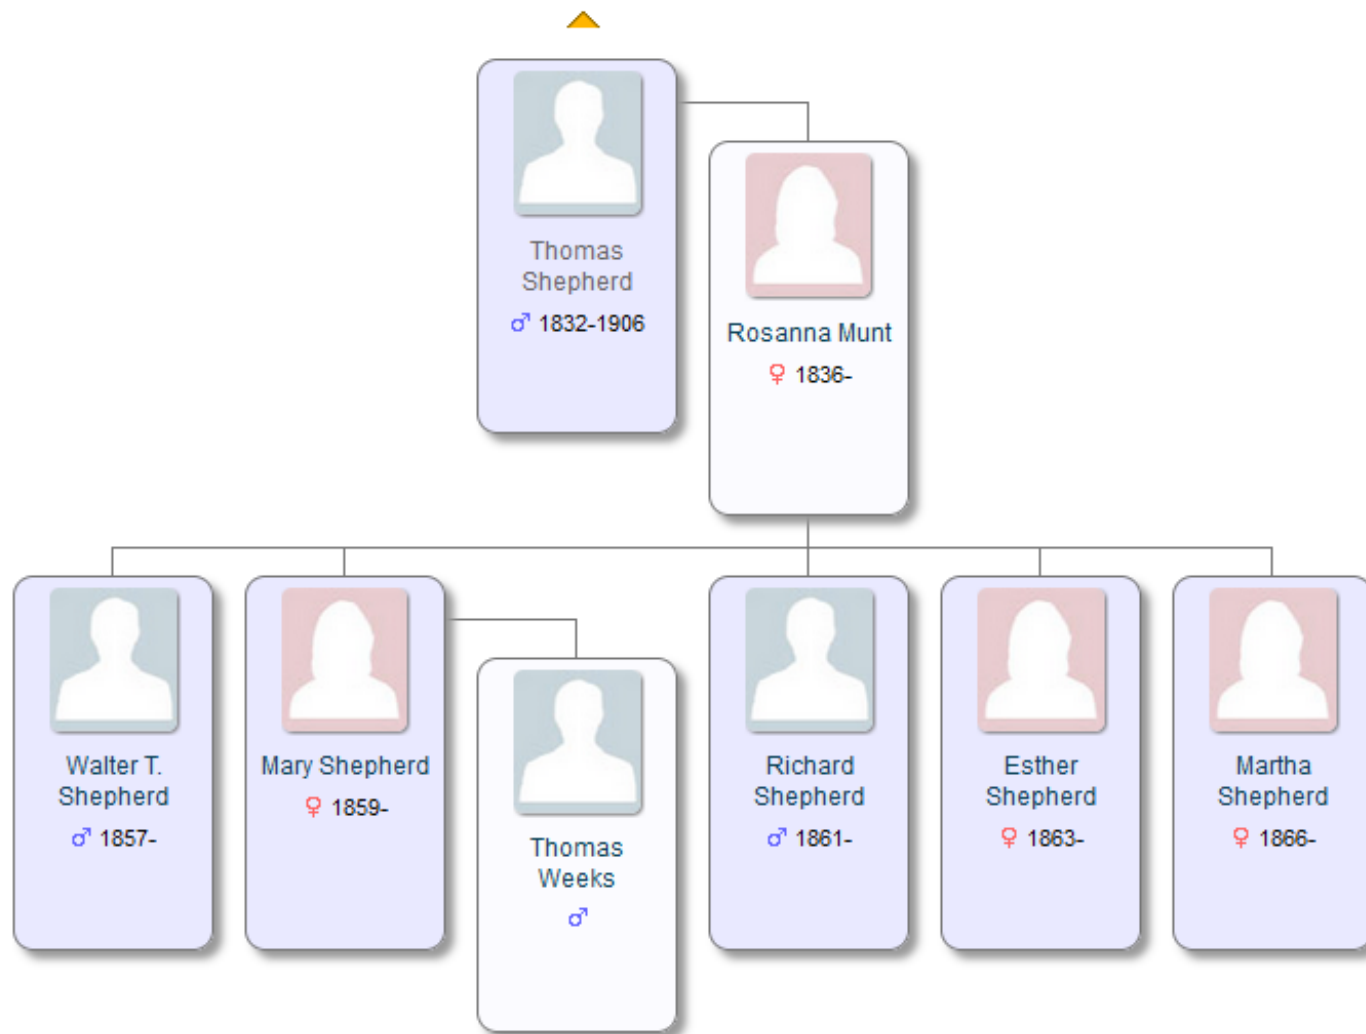

Vera was also an active member of the Wheatley United Reformed Church. They moved into Breach Close (now known as 29 Littleworth Road). Vera died in July 2004.

Keith Bartram Shepherd was baptized at the URC on 15 May 1921.
