

A photograph of a winter landscape at Littleworth Nature Reserve. A dark, calm pond is the central focus, surrounded by a thick layer of snow. Bare trees and bushes are heavily laden with snow, creating a serene and quiet atmosphere. The sky is overcast, and the overall color palette is dominated by whites, greys, and dark browns.

Littleworth Nature Reserve
a local treasure

1972 - 74 used as council tip, covered over 1978 - landscaped and planted with saplings

1991 - on-going management included ...

- annual grass cutting
- regular environmental monitoring
- frequent inspections with dog

2011 - environmental monitoring reduced and maintenance ceases

2020 - paths had become impassible

2021 - paths are cleared by volunteers

Butterfly glade is cleared

Littleworth Nature Reserve

Updated May 2021

..... Public footpaths

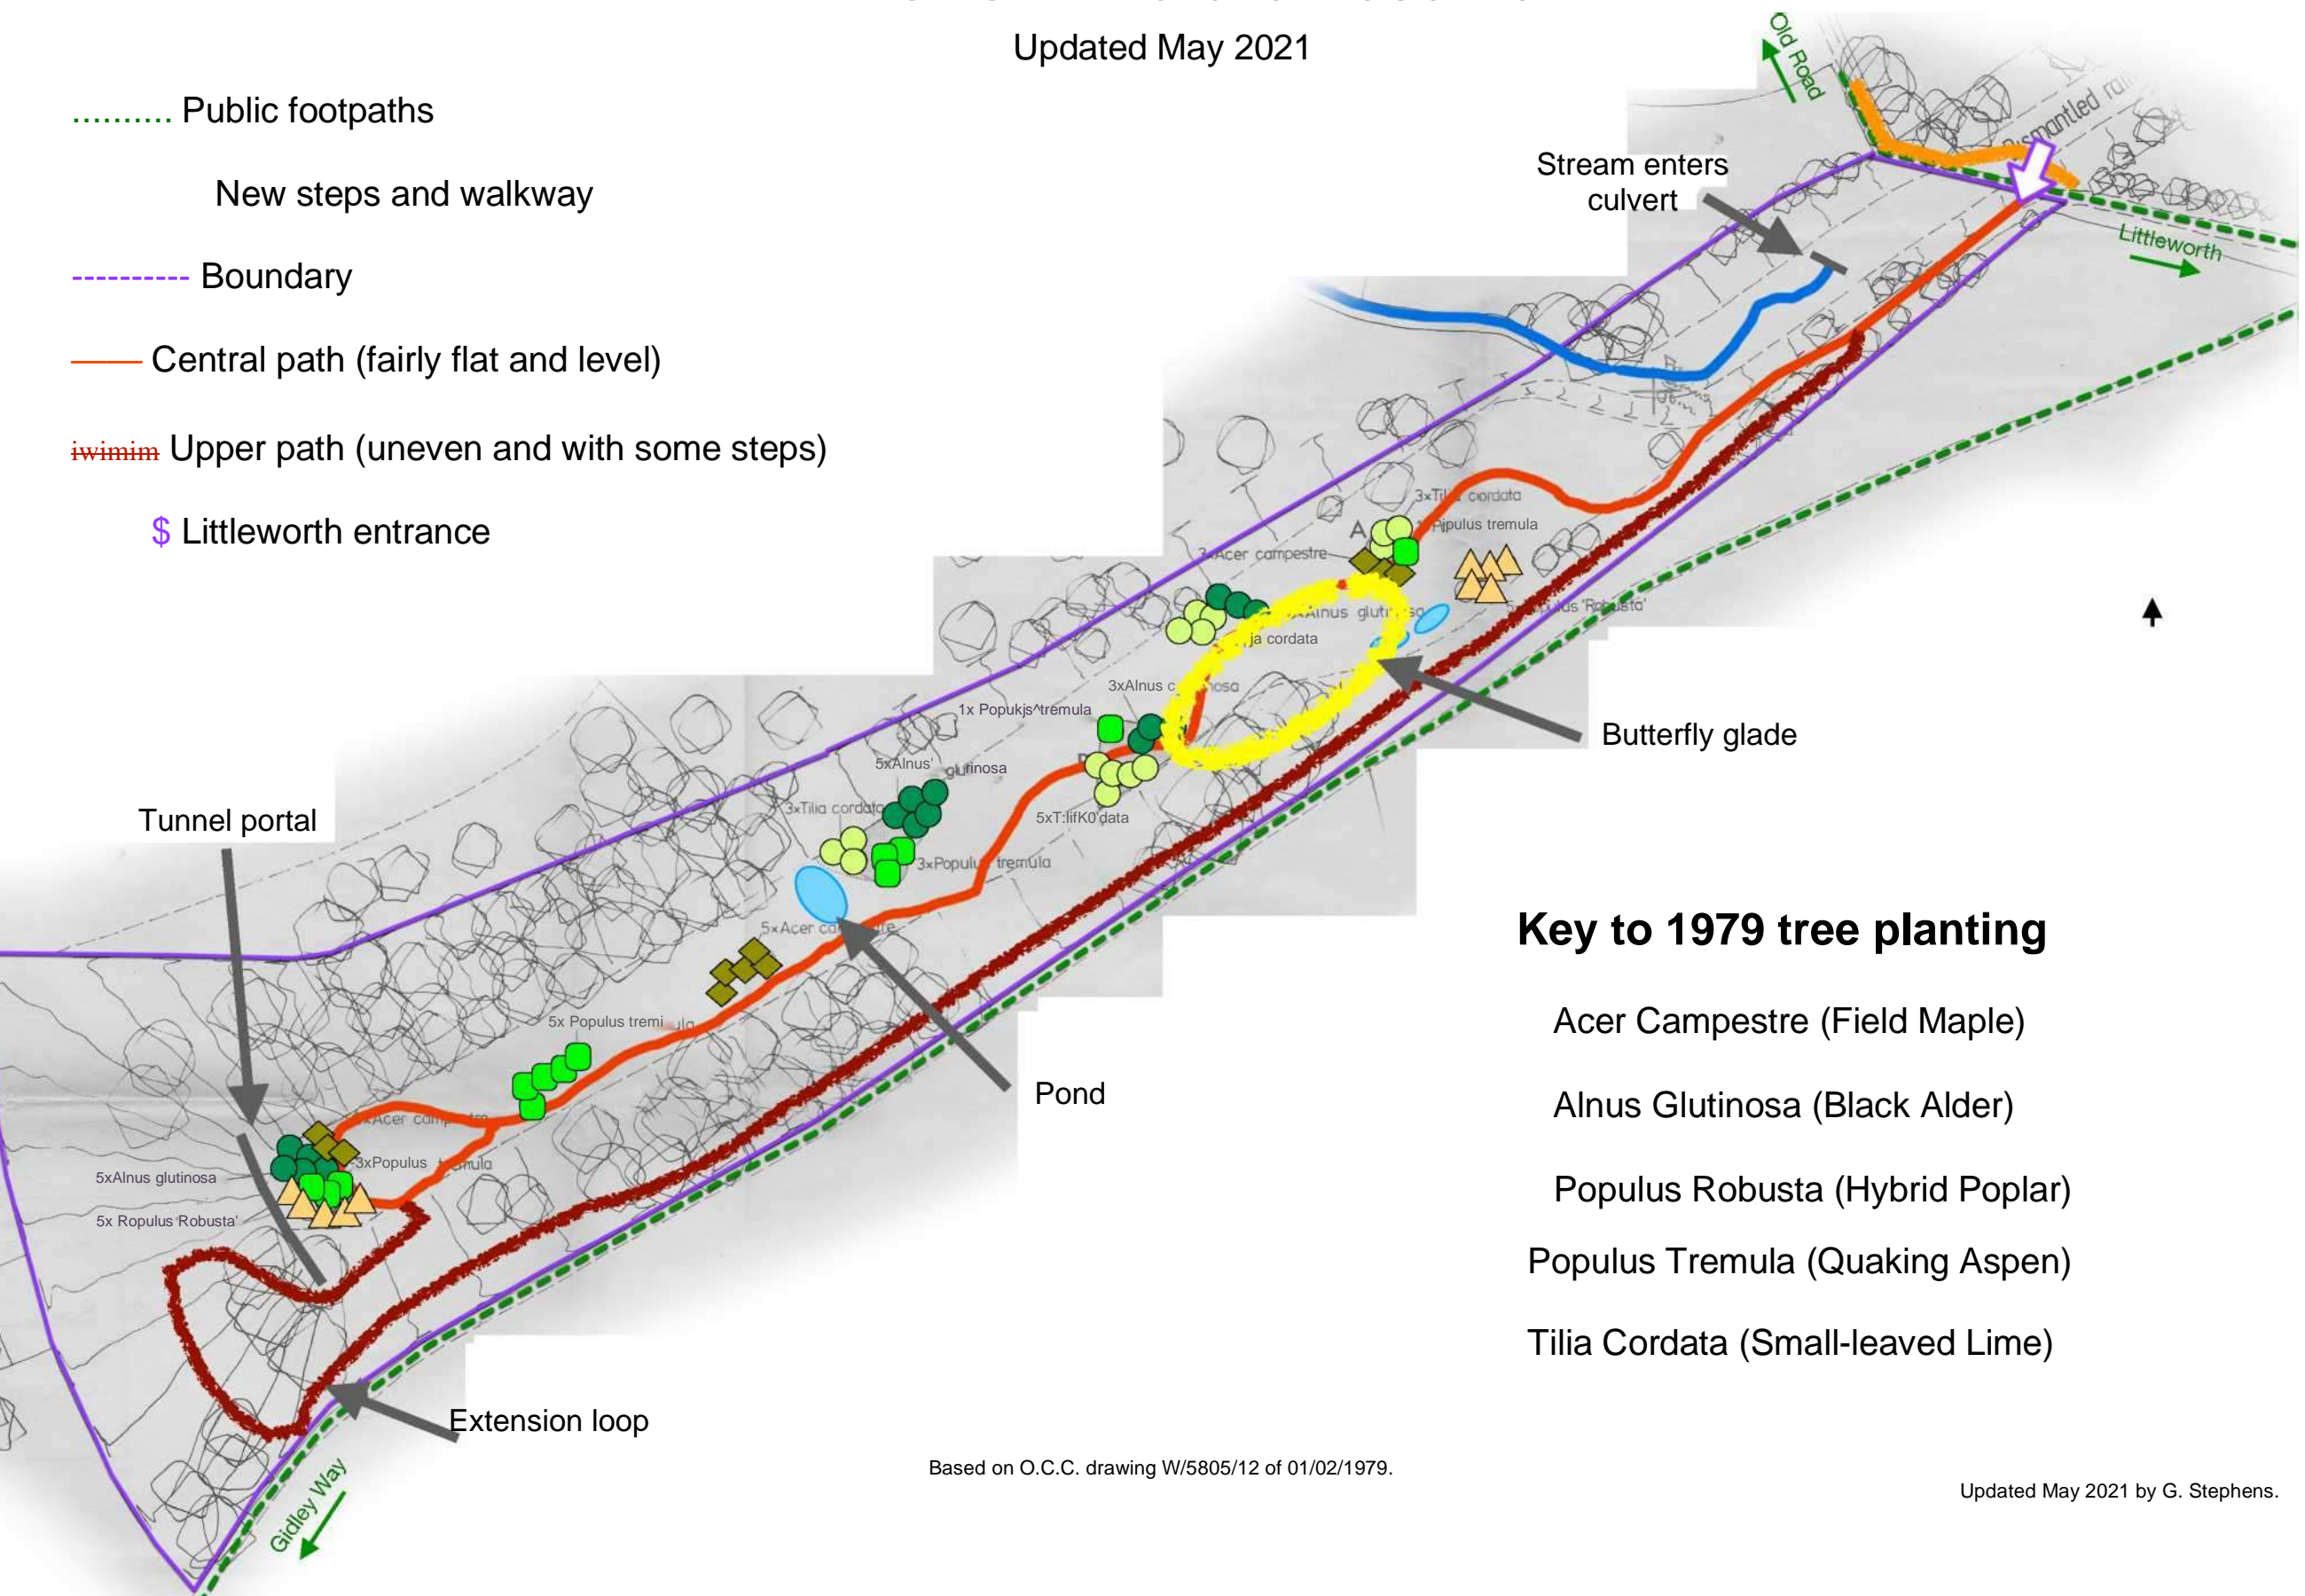

— New steps and walkway

- - - Boundary

— Central path (fairly flat and level)

~ Upper path (uneven and with some steps)

⌘ Littleworth entrance

Key to 1979 tree planting

Acer Campestre (Field Maple)

Alnus Glutinosa (Black Alder)

Populus Robusta (Hybrid Poplar)

Populus Tremula (Quaking Aspen)

Tilia Cordata (Small-leaved Lime)

Based on O.C.C. drawing W/5805/12 of 01/02/1979.

Updated May 2021 by G. Stephens.

A vital wildlife corridor ...

